BOY'S BEDROOM

JOSH PICKERING, PICKERING HOUSE INTERIOR DESIGN

Created for a young man on the go, this bedroom evokes worldly notions of travel and experience. Design considerations included a gentleman's hopes and dreams for exploration, academics and inclusion in social clubs such as the Harvard Club and Knickerbocker Club. "This room is imagined for a college-age student full of aspirations," says designer Josh Pickering. Campaign-style details include the tent-inspired window draperies and canopy on the metal bed. The custom desk and nightstand play into the theme thanks to details such as inset finger pulls, brass trimmings and tooled leather handles reminiscent of those on a vintage suitcase. Global influences include the Georgian column, Egyptian obelisks and the Bolga basket dog bed, handwoven in Africa. The tole agave planter lends a touch of Latin America. The Klismos desk chair recalls travels to Greece, and the hand-painted lampshades have motifs taken from Villa Kerylos.
